

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

March 15, 2022

Stay tuned for the second installment of The Artist Conversation series at newARTSpace on Saturday, March 26. The afternoon begins at 1:00 when artists Carol Emmons and Karen Stewart sit down with Terri Warpinski to talk about art and life. Emmons and Stewart are both featured in the current exhibition, NEW/ART II at newARTSpace, with each presenting new projects that react to life in our post-pandemic world. Emmons draws from historical references, especially the medieval writings on disease by Hildegard von Bingen, in her site-specific installation, while Stewart's work appears to derive most directly from the daily news cycles since March of 2020 in her installment of 60 selected daily artistic reflections incorporating text on one side and a visual on the other. There is poignancy and melancholy in both projects, and, at the same time we find cause to celebrate that we have art to make sense of life.

Come join the conversation!

The gallery will be open from noon – 4pm. The event is free and open to the public.
